The DT-PR stock is the Precision Rifle (PR) variant of our new Dual-Tension (DT) series of carbine stocks. It incorporates Magpul's proprietary, patent-pending DT adjustment system, mitigating play between the buffer tube and the stock, resulting in a tighter fit across the stock's entire length of pull. It also minimizes snagging of facial hair and skin where the shooter's face contacts the stock. The DT-PR has a contoured butt-pad for improved shoulder purchase and minimal contact with the collar bone, allowing shooters to maintain comfort during heads-up and heads-down shooting with various optics. The extended bottom of the stock provides shooters with an exceptionally steady contact point on squeeze bags for more precise shots when prone, while remaining entirely functional as an on-the-move tactical platform. The DT-PR includes an ambidextrous, rotation-limited QD cup for sling attachment. It's also compatible with Magpul's legacy CTR Cheek Risers when the stock is fully extended or on rifles without rear-facing charging handles, giving shooters adjustable comb height for improved efficiency in target acquisition and field of view. For a lot less than other precision stocks, the DT-PR provides an incredibly steady platform combined with better control. Made in the USA. New LOP-adjustment Dual Tension system improves ease of adjustment while securing LOP placement, limiting secondary movements, and improving durability.
