A Compact Revolver Grip With a Spring-Loaded Surprise

Owners of concealed-carry revolvers have struggled for years in the battle between having a full firing grip or having a short, concealable grip that won't print. What if you could have both on one gun? Sounds impossible, but thanks to the unique design of the Pachmayr GuardianGrip, it's a reality! The innovative design of the Pachmayr GuardianGrip lies in the spring-loaded extension located at the bottom of the grip. When carried, the GuardianGrip is sized the same as many other two-finger compact grips on the market. But with a simple button push, the grip extension shoots out of the bottom, allowing for a full firing grip. The Pachmayr GuardianGrip is made from polymer and features a checkered surface that promotes a solid grip. The side of the grip is contoured to allow clearance for a speedloader, and the design is impervious to all weather conditions, cleaners or moisture.
